

NZCS Terry Healy Project Award

Terry Healy Coastal Project Award

The Terry Healy Coastal Project Award acknowledges the achievement of a project which has made a significant contribution to New Zealand's coastal and marine environment.

The award is intended to commend a coastal project for its overall commitment to excellence working within the coastal zone and promoting the New Zealand Coastal Society (NZCS) vision and values:

Sustainable management of New Zealand's coastal and marine environment underpinned by sound science, engineering and policy practice, comprehensive monitoring, involved communities and effective national networks.

The award intends to raise community awareness of the importance of the coastal zone and to encourage coastal planners, engineers and management practitioners to strive for excellence.

Eligibility

Eligible projects include all research, study or construction projects which work in/around the coastal zone, such as:

- Innovation. A project that has made innovations or advancements in design within the coastal environment.
- Sustainability. A project contributing to improving sustainable outcomes for coastal communities, coastal management or engineering projects.
- Management. A project demonstrating excellence in coastal planning and/or management.
- Community Engagement. A project which has achieved excellence in engaging a community to improve the coastal environment, community or sustainability.
- Climate Adaptation. A project that has made a significant contributions or improvement to climate adaptation in the coastal zone.

Eligible projects must have been active (begun, ongoing or finalised) during the calendar year between NZCS annual conferences.
